

Hippodrome Reel

George Lowell Tracy (1855-1921) was a young man who later composed light opera and composition books, according to musicologist Charles Wolfe. Evidently Tracy arranged music as well, for one publication from the 1880's indicates an Arthur & Sullivan work was arranged by him.

Although there are relatively modern venues called The Hippodrome (there was a theater in New York called the Hippodrome, built in 1905), the name originally referred to a type of ancient Greek stadium for horse and chariot racing.

Printed sources: Cole (1000 Fiddle Tunes), 1940; p. 38. Ryan's Mammoth Collection, 1883; p. 63. Silberberg (Tunes I Learned at Tractor Tavern), 2002; p. 61.

Hippodrome Reel

G.L. Tracy[1855-1921]

FF Version

Polka

AABB

♩ = 240

5

9

13

Playing Notes:

- none.