

Cock o' the North [1]

Cock of the North, The [2]

Rhythm: Strathspey

Transcription: AK/Fiddler's Companion

Cock o' the North [3]

Chords: A, Bm, A, E

Rhythm: slide

Discography: Jackie Daly, "Many's a Wild Night", track 13(b)

Notes: From the album notes by Ma/ire O'Keeffe:

[T]he last two slides are versions of the well known "Cock o'the North". This is a common Scottish piping tune which can be found in 6/8 time in James Hunter's "The Fiddle music of Scotland" No. 299, where we are told that the Cock o' the North was an honorary title for the Duke of Gordon. The second tune came from the playing of Maurice O'Keeffe of Kishkeam who attributed this version to the playing of Johnny Billy, a far out relation of Tom Billy's who was renowned for the sweetness of his playing. According to Maurice, Johnny Bill was a shy man and was never recorded.

Cock O' The North

Rhythm: jig

Cock O' The North

Rhythm: single jig

Cock O' The North

Rhythm: jig

Cock O' The North

Rhythm: jig

Cock O' The North

Rhythm: jig

Cock O' The North

Rhythm: jig

Cock O' The North

Rhythm: slide